HOW TO IMPRESS POLISH WOMEN

Alex Vidal | September 4, 2015 | European Women, Polish Women | dating polish women, polish dating, polish women

So you are interested in dating Polish women and are wondering how to go about it. You probably recognize that western dating rules do not apply here and you need some advice. Actually there are several things that are similar about dating in the west and dating in the east. Here are some helpful tips for you.

1. Be a Gentleman

This is always the number one rule in dating. Chivalry is very much in and especially so in the Eastern culture. Polish women are used to doors being opened for them, being helped to their seat at a restaurant, being escorted and so on. It stems from the fact that Polish culture is still very conservative and your date expects to be treated as a lady. No matter how corny this seems to you it is the way you need to behave if you want to have success in dating these ladies.

2. Little Gifts

A box of chocolates? Flowers? Absolutely. It is customary in Poland to bring presents even for the smallest occasion so bringing flowers or a box of chocolates for your date is a must. Instead of coming up with something yourself we suggest you use help from a local florist to get a perfect bouquet. That is because Polish people are rather superstitious and certain flowers mean certain things. You want to be sure you get it right.

3. Offer to Carry Things

We are aware this sounds incredibly corny but it is expected. Even on the street when you see someone with heavy bags or parcels you should offer your help. Even without having any romantic interest in the person. That is what the local people are used to – it is the environment they grew up in. Try to get into the mindset of being gentlemanly in all things you do.
