When dating a Russian girl online or in real life, there are certain things to take into account. The Russian women who were born and bred in Russia feel more loved when you date them according to their likes, customs, and preferences. No matter which girl you prefer, be her name Anastasia or Jelena, read these tips before you make your move.

The first thing to remember: If you are planning to court a Russian lady on-line, it is crucial that you remain truthful regarding who you are and what interests you for the duration of your dating experience. Once you've found the woman of your dreams among the profiles of the numerous Russian singles available on the dating site, you should email her indicating your desire for her. If her response to you indicates that she has the same feelings as you, you could move the romance further.

Try not to enjoy a virtual relationship for too long, since it is useless daydreaming without ever contacting the real Russian woman. There are lots of ways to get in touch with a person who is thousands of miles away from you because of modern technology. Most people have a cellphone or a laptop with internet connection. If you met your chosen woman on an online dating website, you could ask her if she is prepared to call you through Skype. If you are sure you're going to meet her in the real world, ask for her number, so you could call her and get to know her first. If for some reason, your chosen woman says she can't talk on the video chat or does not own a mobile phone, that should be a warning. If that happens, the girl is either not interested in you or she isn't real.

As your online courtship with your Russian woman continues, it's necessary to take the next step and meet face to face so there is no chance for deception. A lot of guys are scared of getting real with the Russian girl that they have been courting. They send hundreds and hundreds of letters, but do nothing at all to move their romance further. Real guys know how to keep the relationship going, and they don't spend time on planning. As soon as you are ready to move forward, approach your lady sensibly. She will be impressed by your gesture and she will know you're interested in making this relationship work. It's very easy to connect with people these days, and it is imperative that you use this to your advantage.

If you start emailing regularly, you can think of this experience as actual dating. If you've been in contact with your lady often, it shouldn't be too difficult to set up a meeting. You should ask your sweetheart how and where she would prefer to meet for the first time. Most Russian women want their dates to come to their country. Then again, you could surprise your sweetheart and meet her at a wonderful holiday resort instead! It should not take you too long to arrange a date with her. If you have a feeling that things have been going great, there's nothing wrong with wanting to meet her in real life. No doubt she'll be happy about your decision.
