If you've been trying out international dating, then it's possible you may have found your Estonian girlfriend already. If this is the case, you could be wondering now how you could sustain the online relationship while you both deal with preparing for you to go over to Estonia or her visiting your country. When looking at statistics, there are many married couples who have had to be away from each other for a long time in their relationship. Either the couples met online on an online dating site or on vacation or through a dating agency and had to spend time apart to sort out the necessary paperwork, it looks like there really is hope that long distance relationships can do well!

It's very important to always be in contact with each other.

Communicating constantly is important in any marriage and even more so with dating online since the aspect of actually being together is not yet there. Emailing and calling often will bring you closer together. These are two very important factors essential in every successful relationship. Thankfully, technology is on the side of online couples everywhere in the world. There is no lack of ways to be in touch every day and on top of that, these ways of communication are not expensive. Through a combination of virtual dates, emails and web cam chats, there really is no difficulty in keeping in touch.

Set your boundaries, goals and expectations with each other.

It's OK to feel a bit insecure in a relationship. It's possible there are other men who've been chatting with your wonderful Estonian girlfriend, and who are in love with her too. She could be wondering too whether she is important enough or even the one and only girl you're talking to. While these musings can't be controlled, what's under your control is how you deal with things like these together. Couples in long distance relationships have figured out a way to deal with the troubles of long distance dating: setting expectations and clear boundaries. This will eliminate the arguments and misunderstandings over unnecessary jealousy. It is normal to demand each other to stick to set boundaries and rules if your common goal is to get married and be together one day.

Hold honest discussions about money.

There are numerous stories around about the frauds and scams of internet dating. Hopefully you're not suspicious of your long distance girlfriend anyway, but to get over any suspicions of scams and frauds, talk to your girlfriend about your financial situation. As an example, if she mentions that she went shopping, you could always ask what she bought, for how much, and for what reason. Only from this, you can already learn whether she knows how to manage her money. If you're just an average Joe, talking about money is very important as you wouldn't want to discover one day that your lovely Estonian girlfriend spent your hard earned cash.
