Ukrainian Women Dating: Texting Mistakes Men Make

Cheryl Weisz | June 12, 2013 | Ukrainian Women | ukrainian women, ukrainian women dating, ukrainian women for marriage

Getting along well on your first date with Ukrainian women does not warrant immediate connection. If you are texting buddies, there's a big probability that you're not the only one texting her. And even if it may seem that she likes you after your first date, a texting mistake can turn a hopeful situation in to a hopeless one with just a press of the send button.

Here are some texting blunders you should make sure to learn from:

Over-Texting Or Being Over-Eager

Avoid texting Ukrainian women the moment you wake up, especially with a message such as, Good Morning, Sexy. This is being a little over-eager. Also, do not send several text messages with the same content, just because she has not responded to your first message. Wait for a day. Any other way and you would appear desperate. Additionally, the fact that she didn't reply right away may mean that she doesn't like you that much. Sending more text messages would just add fuel to fire that you're just not her type. Although, a no-response doesn't mean that you have to automatically give up. Be patient. After a day or two, send her a text that would slightly or playfully provoke her such as, I saw this model earlier and I actually thought she was you.

Using Nicknames Too Early

Even if you've already gone out, and you feel that you have made progress, it would be a bit bizarre to be calling them nicknames this early, even though sexy or gorgeous is a general term. In this early stage of dating, using petnames or terms of endearment is being way too casual sooner than appropriate.

Messages That Are Too Long

Don't send text messages beyond the character limits. Most Ukrainian women are not happy about receiving texts that come in 2 to 3 parts. In addition, long messages tend to affirm neediness; like you are so bored and lonely that you have just spent 10 minutes typing a text message and you are anticipating that she'll do the same.

Invitations Through Text

If you want to invite her out, call her. You would be able to appraise how she really feels about your invitation if you could hear her voice.

Texting After Midnight

If you are serious about hooking up with Ukrainian women, do not send her messages after midnight. Aside from the fact that that is rude, sending text messages late at night is usually affiliated with the need for sex.

Texting While Drunk

If you are out drinking with your friends, focus on your friends. While it is understandable that you can't get her out of your head because you're so into her, sending her messages while you are drunk is a very bad idea. Furthermore, sometimes, when people are too intoxicated with alcohol, they tend to blabber about things they wouldn't normally say. So save yourself from aggravation. You wouldn't want to end up sending her a text message about your gross toilet rituals or your deep dark secrets.
