What Women from Eastern Europe Want

↳ Lipi B. | ⌚ October 7, 2014 | 📁 European Women

When you are dating a woman, you are tempted to exaggerate. You might boast about your job, talk constantly about your wonderful lifestyle and take her to the most expensive places. None of these things will truly impress her. Whether you are dating women from Eastern Europe, there are certain common elements that they look for in a man.

Sincerity

Women like men who know how to act naturally. If you take a woman to an exclusive restaurant where you clearly feel uncomfortable, you will fail to impress. If you prefer small bistros or even a simple picnic in a park, this is what you should do. She will appreciate the chance to see the real you and it will be much more relaxing.

If you pay a woman a compliment, you should mean it. Women are impressed when men notice that they've styled their hair, worn a special dress or selected a beautiful piece of jewels. Be specific when paying a compliment so a woman knows that you don't say the same lines to everyone you date.

Humor

The best relationships are ones in which both partners can share laughter. You don't have to be skilled at joke telling or doing impersonations. You should be able to laugh at yourself if you make a mistake or see the humor in life's little mishaps such as spilling wine on your shirt. Women are attracted to men whom they perceive as easy-going. Showing your sense of humor is one way to achieve this.

Romance

Women like to be wooed. Flowers, candlelight or bringing her soup when she's sick are all ways to show a woman you think she's special. Remember birthdays, anniversaries and other special occasions. With phone apps to remind you, there's really no excuse.

Respect Her Needs

You may not want to go shopping or watch a fashion parade but doing so will show how much you care. It's okay for you to tell your date that it really isn't something you would normally do but you are willing to go along. It isn't okay for you to sulk and complain after you agree to go.

If your date has family emergencies or other problems which cause her to alter plans, show that you understand. Women need to know that you can support them through difficulties, not just be there for the fun times.

Hopefully, if you show your date the best aspects of your personality, she will reciprocate with similar support for your needs and interests. Base your relationship on honesty and openness, don't try to be too flashy and demonstrate that you care. You will definitely have more success in the dating game if you take this simple advice.
